LEED – Linking Education and Economic Development, partners with the Los Rios Community College District’s Business and Economic Development Center to present CONVERGENCE 2009. This quarterly breakfast series showcases the issues that exist at the intersection of education, workforce development, and economic prosperity. Our theme for 2009 is ADVOCACY AND ACTION.

The 2009 CONVERGENCE series will focus on public policy and advocacy issues that relate to education and workforce development. “With President Obama, Senate ProTem Darrell Steinberg and Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnson, we know that these issues will be at the forefront of the federal, state and regional agendas. We want to make sure that we utilize the platform here at Convergence to not only discuss but advance this critical set of issues,” said LEED CEO David Butler.

Employers, education leaders, civic leaders, elected officials, economic developers, and entrepreneurs in emerging industries have the opportunity to unite and champion our collective efforts to ensure our region and our residents compete and succeed in the global economy. We invite you to support CONVERGENCE as a sponsor today.
